Market Comments

The benchmark US federal funds rate stands at 3.50% to 3.75%, following a hawkish pause by the Federal Reserve at its June 2026 meeting. The central bank has eliminated its easing bias, leaving markets to prepare for a "higher-for-longer" environment or a potential rate hike later this year. This shift is backed by a resilient domestic economy experiencing sticky inflation and steady employment parameters. The macroeconomic backdrop exhibits solid, persistent growth dynamics which remove any policy pressure for the Fed to stimulate the economy. Gross Domestic Product (GDP) rose to an annualized +2.1% in Q1 and the PCE Price Index climbed to 3.4%, holding well above the 2.0% target anchor. The QAR profit rates is expected to hold and move gradually in line with the FED rate cuts.
